Q: What should I expect on the day of my exam?

A: On the day of your exam, log in to the schedule at go.proctoru.com and click the “Start” button. You will be taken to the proctoring website where you will complete three steps:

- Step one: Connect your computer to your proctor via screen-sharing.
 - Select the “Click to Download” button and run the file named “Support-LogMeInRescue.” You may need to save the file and run it from your download folder. For security reasons, the file must be run within ten minutes after downloading or it expires.
- Step two: Show your photo ID
 - When your camera and desktop are connected to your proctor, you will be asked to show a government or institution issued photo ID.
 - Non-US citizens must present two forms of photo identification.
- Step three: Authentication
 - The proctor will open and unlock the authentication challenge quiz, which asks you questions based on public records.
 - Please be sure to have a second form of government or institution issued photo ID ready, if this quiz is not passed.

You will also be required to show your work area by panning the webcam around the room. The proctor will also take your photo for your account to help authenticate you in the future.

When these steps are complete, your proctor will instruct you to open a new tab or window and navigate to your testing website. Your proctor will explain your rules and allowed materials and unlock the exam for you.

Your test timer does not start until the proctor unlocks your exam.

Important notes: You must be alone in a well-lit room with the light source in front of you so your face is not shadowed. When your exam is open, you are not allowed to speak or converse with anyone else. If you have roommates or family members, please be isolated from them and ensure that they know you are testing and cannot be disturbed.

Q: Where do the challenge questions come from?

A: Data for the challenge questions come from a US consumers database at Acxiom. The data consists of public records collected primarily from state and federal government sources. Federal and state laws place restrictions on the use of some of these sources, but some information is considered in the public domain, meaning anyone has access to it. Information in the public domain often includes telephone directory listings, professional registries, classified ads and more.

Q: Are breaks allowed during my exam?

A: The break policy for exams depends on your institution. Your proctor will tell you at the time of your exam if restroom breaks are allowed and how many.

Q: Can I make changes to my reservation?

A: Yes. Log in to your account and click the “Reschedule” button next to your reservation time. You can choose a new exam time or change the exam. Select the new time slot and then click “Schedule” to complete the changes.

If you wish to make changes less than 48 hours before your exam, please contact ProctorU using LiveChat on our website or after logging in to go.proctoru.com.

There is a $5.00 fee for rescheduling examinations with less than 48 hours prior to exam time.

Q: How do I cancel an appointment?

A: You have three options to cancel an appointment:

- If there are at least 72 hours before your exam, log in to your account at go.proctoru.com and click the “Cancel” button next to the exam. Select a reason from the dropdown menu and provide a brief explanation.
- Send an email to help@proctoru.com with your name, school, the date and time (including time zone) of your current appointment and the reason for cancellation. You may also reschedule appointments this way.
- Call ProctorU at 855-772-8678 and speak with a representative. Our phones team will request the same information requested above and help you to cancel or reschedule.

Q: Will the proctor be able to access my computer files without my knowledge?

A: No, a proctor cannot access your computer files without your knowledge. The proctor will always ask for permission to view the screen, move the mouse and type as if he or she were sitting next to the test-taker.

When the test starts, the proctor will monitor the appointment, but switches to a screen-viewing mode where they can no longer move the test-taker’s mouse and keyboard.

During the entire process, an interface log, or chat box, runs on the test-taker’s computer and they can see what permissions the proctor currently has at any time.

The entire session log is saved and there is a permanent record of the actions the proctor took while accessing the test-takers computer.

Q: Is there a fee for late registration?

A: There is a $5.00 premium for scheduling an exam less than 72 hours before the chosen appointment time.

Q: How far in advance should I cancel an exam?

A: Please contact us at least 24 hours before your appointment in order to cancel or change your exam. If you do not show up for your exam and give no prior notice, you will not be eligible for a refund.

Exams rescheduled less than 48 hours before an exam start time will incur a $5.00 rescheduling premium.

Q: I canceled my exam in advance but have not received a refund. What can I do?

A: Please send an email to refunds@proctoru.com (refunds spelled plural). Please include your name, institution, the date and time of your appointment and the reason you canceled.

Q: I don't see my question on the list. How can I get more information?
